

Wikipedia assignment suggestions for criminal justice students

If you intend to study criminal justice, then you might wish to choose a topic for this assignment that fits with your intended major. There are many topics of international and domestic criminal justice, law enforcement, and terrorism that you could use for this assignment. Since this is a world history class, I very much prefer that you select a topic that is not an American one. Of course, you do not have to choose a topic that is centered on criminal justice for the Wikipedia assignment.

Digital project ideas for criminal justice students

If you really want to, you can do a project that is connected with your study of criminal justice. I would remind you that since this course is a world history course, your project should focus on a non-US topic, but I do sometimes make an exception and approve something that deals with the United States, but it has to be a really good project proposal. A good starting point in looking for a topic is to look at the work of international justice organizations such as those listed above.

Please review the types of projects available

(/www.ctevans.net/Nvcc/HIS112/Assignments/Digproject.html) and note that there are different point values connected to the different types.
